SPEECH ON BUDGET DEBATE

BY

MR. GREENWAY, M. P. P.,

Leader of the Opposition in the Local Legislature.

Mr. Greenway, who, on rising was loudly applauded, said :
—I feel that on this occasion I do not rise to address the House under ordinary circumstances. The Premier in making the motion to go into Committee of Supply, expressed the opinion that the discussion would probably cover a wide range; and it is, I may say, customary on these occasions to review the actions of the Government of the day, and in doing so members are allowed the widest possible latitude of discussion. (hear.) To any one listening to the leader of the Government during the two hours he spoke on this question, it must be evident that the Opposition were, metaphorically speaking, supposed to be left without a garment. (Hear and laughter.) But I can stand here to-day and say conscientiously that I am more than gratified to find that my hon. friend did on an occasion of this kind make the speech he did. (Cheers.) It is certainly gratifying to me, as taking a great deal of interest in Manitoba politics for some time past, to find the leader of the Government standing up, and with the authority of his position—and he necessarily speaks with authority—enunciate views which I have entertained all along in reference to the great questions agitating the public mind to which he alluded. (Hear, hear.) Certainly the present position of affairs in our Province is deplorable. (Hear, hear.) We are called on now to consider the financial position of the Province, a subject on which any one in the House, or outside it, at all well acquainted with Provincial affairs, cannot have any doubt. We cannot overtake our liabilities—thus much is abundantly evident. We have an annual subsidy made up in this way:—For legislation and government, $50,000; the 80 cents per head of population, $120,000; in lieu of land, $45,000; interest on the balance of capital at our credit, $12,153.24; total, $227,153.24. No one conversant with our requirements as a Province will undertake to say that this is a sufficient sum, on which to conduct the affairs of the Province. Representations have been, as we know, frequently made at Ottawa, to change this state of affairs, but still they want remedying. No substantial, lasting, satisfactory readjustment has ever been arrived at. (Hear, hear.) We have, of course, that celebrated Ottawa despatch of April 2nd; but neither does that apply a remedy. (Hear, hear.) It seems to me inexplicable that in the face of repeated representations and remonstrances made by delegates from time to time, so little should have been effected—that our position grows worse instead of improving. (Hear, hear.) Some months ago, in addition to all previous representations made to Ottawa, we made out a strong case in favor of the extension of the Provincial bounds, so that we would be enabled to aid and control the projected Hudson's Bay Railway—a road which the people unanimously desired, and which was of the utmost consequence to the prosperity of the Province.

The response made from Ottawa, as contained in this celebrated despatch, was that the Government proposed to aid the railway to a material extent, and to provide that the interests of Manitoba should be protected. I am not aware that we have the slightest inkling as to how our interests are to be protected. (Hear, hear.) Whatever they may do, is, I suppose, to be taken as a protection of our interests. (Laughter.) This is a way they have at Ottawa. (Hear, hear.) And I must complain here that there has been a disposition to trifle with these important matters. Perhaps, Mr. Speaker, it might not be out of place for me to express a fear which I have entertained for some time, that in this important matter, too, our interests have not been guarded so closely as they might have been—it is possible that it may turn out that what has been done in connection with the Hudson's Bay Railway may have been more with the object of delaying rather than expediting the construction of that road, which is to do so much for this country.

When this Legislature assembled in March last I think that the Governments of Ottawa and Manitoba understood then the position of affairs here as well as they do now. (Hear, hear.) But the one government suggested further delay and the other very obligingly took the hint in the resolutions and agreed to the appointment of a committee as a capital way of shelving the difficulty till a more convenient season. (Hear, hear.) The complaint here all along has been—not that the gentlemen at Ottawa did not understand the position of affairs in Manitoba—for they have had full information—the Premier's own clear and exhaustive statement supplementing all the rest—although it must be added they do not seem to have made the best use of that information. In their despatch they show an utter disregard of facts, which is astonishing. In sec. 2 of the despatch, referring to the financial position, they say that the basis in which we receive the 80 cents a head is on 120,000 souls, whereas they suggested when the last arrangement was made that for that purpose the population of our Province should be assumed to be 150,000 souls—and upon that basis was the $120,000, or 80 cents per head, granted. From this it appears quite clear that upon this occasion at least they have not given the subject the most ordinary consideration.

In the next clause, referring to the financial position, I think we have the key to the whole situation. It is at least one with which members on the Opposition side would, on general principles, agree. They announce plainly enough that they have no confidence in the Government of Manitoba. (Cheers and laughter.) Still, I protest, in the interests of this Province, against Dominion interference in our affairs. I say that the people here have a right to determine who shall govern them. (Cheers.) And so long as the Premier sits there—and can by any tactics he may use keep himself there—(laughter)—he has a right to the confidence of the people of Manitoba. (Hear and cheers.) These gentlemen at Ottawa, discussing our representations, say that they have been given a sacred trust in regard to our school lands, and do not propose to hand them over to us. (Hear, hear.) That is to say—the people of Manitoba cannot be trusted to do the best for themselves in this particular. (Hear and laughter.) I hardly think it is necessary to discuss the question as to whether these lands could be best administered here or at Ottawa, if their general management of the lands in this country is to be taken as a criterion of the manner in which the School Lands of this Province would be managed from these, then we are safe in saying that we object to its being done from the Dominion Capital. (Hear, hear.) We are certainly in a much better position to administer them here than they are at Ottawa, where they neither understand our position nor undertake to acquaint themselves fully with it. (Cheers.) As to our public lands, we are to ask not only for what remains, but also to require compensation for such as have been sold. On this point, I still hold to my view as being the correct one, viz, that as so much of our land has been alienated, we should undertake to devise some way by which an equivalent for that and for the lands still held should be received and added to our capital account. (Hear, hear.) That would, it seems to me, be the best way of disposing of the question. The absurdity of the position taken by the gentlemen at Ottawa is well illustrated by the comparison they draw between this Province and Prince Edward Island. Because the lands of Manitoba were purchased and Prince Edward Island had none to purchase, therefore, they say Manitoba should be placed in the same position as her sister Province by the Atlantic, and get an allowance. On the strength of this comparison they take the ground that $900,000 should be added to our capital account, as representing the amount we are entitled to receive in lieu of public lands. (Hear, hear.) The Premier took exception to the statement that the $45,000 annually granted was in lieu of our right to our public lands. I can only reply that in this despatch they represent that the $45,000 is given in lieu of our public lands. And the position I took was that we should not accept it as such.

Hon. Mr. Norquay—And I never consented, on the part of the Government, to part with our right to our lands for the $45,000—nor did any member of the Government. (Hear, hear.) Prince Edward Island, which was cited as an analogous case, had not an acre. In Manitoba, where the people had their Crown lands, they were in a very different position from Prince Edward Island. (Hear, hear).

Mr. Greenway—The position they took at Ottawa was that it was in lieu of our lands we got the grant. (Hear, hear.) The other point in this connection as to the ten years' settlement is one which I took from a speech in the House of Commons on that question. It was by the Finance Minister of the Dominion—who ought to know. But it appears that hon. gentleman was wrong; and through his misstatement, I was misled. No one could be more happy than I am to acknowledge the misunderstanding—which, perhaps, may prove a benefit to us in the end. (Hear, hear.) We have been all along anxiously looking for relief from our present difficulties; and we have been led to believe, all through this session, by the organ of the Dominion Government in this city—through its telegrams—that the question of Manitoba's interests was to be considered to-morrow—or next week—or on a certain day—it was always going to be done, but it never was done: and so the position remains to this day. (Cheers and laughter.)

Our contention on this side of the House is that the Government of Manitoba takes to-day a step that it ought to have taken long since. (Hear, hear.) They should long before this have shown the Ottawa authorities that they could not with impunity trifle with our best interests. (Cheers.) There seemed to be at Ottawa a studied determination to ignore the representations of this Province. How else does it happen that a manifesto such as the Premier presented there, which was in itself quite sufficient to point to the necessity for prompt action, while at the same time disabusing their minds of the idea that Manitoba was draining away Eastern resources—how does it happen that with such an authoritative statement issued at the Capital, they still cling to their unfounded notions as to Manitoba being a burden to them? So much is this the case that one of the members supposed to be best informed—who is, it is believed, to become a member of the Government—hesitates not to commit himself to the stupid assertion that we are a pampered people—spoon-fed lot. (Laughter.) Evidently they take little pains to acquaint themselves with the position of this Province. (Hear, hear.) Let us for a moment endeavor to give a correct statement of our position in Confederation. And, in order that there should be no misunderstanding, I will take the public accounts of the Dominion as my guide. We find on pages 142 and 143, in the Public Works report for 1883, some figures bearing on this point. I have been desirous, for instance, to ascertain what amount of the cost of construction the C. P. R. is really chargeable to this Province, for it must be remembered that one of the statements they fling in our face is that they are building the C. P. R. for us. (Hear, hear.) Well, I find on looking into the figures, that the proportion which they say themselves ought to be charged to this Province on account of the C. P. R.—$5,641,181.85—or, counting from the time we entered Confederation, to the year 1882, there is chargeable to us, according to their own showing for all purposes—a total of $6,802,036.18. What do we see right alongside these figures? That in the same time Ontario received from Dominion sources and is chargeable with $39,190,677.49; and Quebec $27,356,334.37. And we should not forget, Sir, that neither Ontario nor Quebec contributed an acre of land towards the construction of the C. P. R. Besides all this, we saw the other day that that same Province of Quebec got in the general grab made on the Dominion $7,000,000 more. (Hear, hear.) What can be said of a Confederation, so ill-constructed, or managed that it allows of the perpetration of such acts? (Hear, hear.) The scheme was devised to build up a great new nation on this continent,—and the C. P. R. was to prove a potent bond of union between the scattered Provinces—in our innocence we regarded it as a great national undertaking in the interest of British Columbia as well as of ourselves and the other Provinces—but something more than the railway is needed to bind us together; and, manifestly, if ever we are to become a great people, it can only be by dispensing even-handed justice to all the Provinces confederated. (Cheers.) How can the Dominion prosper and hold together when such unrighteous acts as giving away $9,000,000 are perpetrated for the reasons assigned? Quebec must be placed in a similar position to Ontario; and so we find the Federal authorities actually voting away millions of dollars to subsidize railways in Quebec, which railways had been already in part sold by that Province! So that Quebec actually got payment for that portion of them twice over. (Hear, hear.) With such facts before them, the wise men in the East, still speak disparagingly of this Province. In further refutation of this charge I will quote no less an authority than the Premier of the Dominion himself. As hon. gentlemen are aware the intention in reference to the eastern terminus of the C. P. R. for some time was, that it should be at Callander, but afterwards on account of the policy of assistance adopted by the then Dominion Government towards the Canada Central Railway, it was practically extended eastward as far as Ottawa.

Now this is the position taken by the leader of the Government at Ottawa during the debate on the celebrated railway resolutions, to which I have referred. Here the member for Mountain read from Sir John Macdonald's speech an extract, in which it was pointed out that until the easterly boundary of Manitoba was reached the whole of the C. P. R. ran through Ontario; that by subsidising that portion of the line running round the north shore of Lake Superior, the whole country there would be developed ; that the 12,000 dollars per mile for this section, and the grant to the C. P. R. sank into insignificance, so far as Ontario was concerned, on account of the enormous advantage she must gain in the opening up of that territory, which, undoubtedly, would greatly enrich that Province from the mineral, timber and other resources of the country about to be opened up—and that, therefore, as Ontario would be so much the gainer, it would be only fair that Quebec should get an equivalent grant from the public purse. That was the position taken by the leader of the Dominion Government; and we contend that until the C. P. R. reaches the Province line to the eastward, the Dominion has no right to say to Manitoba we built one foot of road for you. (Hear, hear.) In reference to the question of Provincial lands, I have some figures, taken from the blue books of the Dominion, giving as near as may be a correct return of the lands disposed of in Manitoba by the Dominion, from 1880 till the end of 1883. This is the statement : There were homesteaded during the four years 3,743,460 acres, on which the fees paid amounted to $239,745; there were pre-empted during the same period 2,299,051 acres, on which the payments were $139,673; there were cash sales, including scrip and warrant lands, to the extent of 2,025,758 acres, on which the fees paid were $1,900,963.50. This gives a total of $4,403,584.52. It must be taken for granted that there is a large amount due the Dominion Government for lands sold in Manitoba. On the 1st of August, 1879, it will be remembered, the land regulations dividing the country into belts, came into force. Many of these lands were sold for one-tenth down, with ten years to pay the balance, and no doubt much of the amount is overdue. I know of many instances where the first payment of one-tenth is all that has been paid. The proportion now due Manitoba on that branch of the account would be $356,751—making a total of $4,760,335.52. This is, let me say, a low estimate of the amounts received by the Dominion from the sale of lands in this Province—and it is one which I know, falls far short of some of the estimates made by some members of the House of Commons when undertaking to show that the C. P. R. was not going to cost Eastern people anything in the long run. (Hear, hear.)

To show the total amount of land alienated from this Province, my statement will have to be more comprehensive. I have shown that homesteads covered 3,743,460 acres; pre-emption 2,299,351 acres; for cash and scrip and warrant lands 2,025,758 acres; but there are besides the Hudson Bay lands, 1,651,600 acres; the half-breed lands 1,400,000 acres; and the C. P. R. grant 1,500,000 acres—or a grand total of 12,609,869 acres,—more than equal to the area of the old Province of Manitoba. (Hear, hear.) In fact, this would include the whole country from a little east of Red River as far as the western boundary of the Province, and going as far north as townships 16 or 17, including the best portion of the Province,—over an area to that extent the Provincial lands have been all alienated. (Hear, hear.) I have not, it will be observed, included our school lands in figures given. They are ours and cannot be parted with; but for the rest I think an equivalent might be taken. We have been always told from Ottawa that the amount given us was so much to help us,—a sort of gift as it were, to enable us to pull through. But in no principle of justice can any such position be taken. (Cheers.) In every instance the amount given us was charged to capital account. We were, in reality, getting a portion of our own money. (Hear, hear.) And what should have been done was not to charge us with the amounts so added to capital, but only our proportion of the interest account. (Hear.) The Federal authorities, in making up their statement, go on to charge this Province with certain sums, such as the amounts for Government purposes, for public roads, for the expeditionary force, and for public works and buildings. In regard to these only a certain proportion can be reasonably charged to Manitoba. (Hear, hear.) If, as they say, they bought us, and paid for us, we certainly cannot be chargeable with the lump sums paid out. The $1,500,000, for example, was paid for the extinguishing of the claims of the Hudson's Bay Company, not merely in the Province, but over the whole of the Northwest; and if the proper area of this Province were compared with the Northwest, something like our proportion of the cost of the purchase could be ascertained. It would be about one-twelfth. Now, if we take the different items specified in the Dominion reports and add them up, it will be found that we cannot in reason be charged with more than $8,607,224.24. It is a very different sum, indeed, from the $45,000,000 with which some eastern legislator gravely proposes to charge us. (Hear, hear.) Now look at the credit side of the account and let us see how it will come out. The Federal balance sheet down to 1883, shows the amount to the credit of Manitoba from lands, customs, excise, post-office, and some smaller items, which, with the balance due on lands, makes a grand total of $9,366,441.40. Deduct the subsidy, and adding the amount due for sales of land in the Province, and the actual balance in favor of Manitoba will be $4,760,335.52. (Hear, hear.)

They have of course a right to charge us with interest on our share of the expenditures—the $8,607,224.24 of which I spoke. The annual interest would be $401,176, or, down to the present time, a little over $4,021,765. During that period we were entitled to a credit of $8,587,224.45, and deducting from this the amount due for interest, with the costs of administration of justice and collection of revenue, we have the balance I have mentioned in favor of Manitoba, viz.:—$4,760,335.52—which amount, capitalized at five per cent., would give us annually $238,016.77. (Hear.) From the statistics I have quoted it is plain that we are a large contributor to the Dominion. (Cheers.)

Six o'clock having struck, the debate was adjourned—Mr. Greenway having the floor.

EVENING SESSION.

The Speaker having taken the chair,

Mr. Greenway resumed his speech, saying—When the House adjourned I was about concluding some remarks on figures which I had extracted from tabulated statements contained in blue books issued by the Federal Government, and I think I had shown pretty conclusively from these that, instead of Manitoba being a drain upon the resources of the Dominion, as eastern people generally assume it is, we have lying at our credit, when we have been charged with all that can possibly be charged to us, and credited with those sums to which we have a right, a sum which would yield when capitalized at five per cent. more than the revenue we derive from the Dominion to-day. When we read such facts as these from the accounts of the Dominion themselves it shows clearly that those gentlemen who undertake to consider our case, or more properly, do not undertake to consider it, have not looked into the facts of the case when they assume such positions. To say that we have a right to be charged for all the undertakings which they enumerate, and which amounts have been added to the debt of the Dominion—is to take a position, that the merest novice, in matters of finance, would see at a glance, was absurd.

As well might those people charge Ontario with the amount of nearly $20,000,000 added to the capital debt of the Dominion of Canada for subsidies to the Grand Trunk Railway which was at the time they were granted considered a national undertaking, or with $7,000,000 subsidies granted to Nova Scotia, or $5,000,000 to New Brunswick, or $3,500,000 to Prince Edward Island. These are sums added to the capital of the Dominion, and we are paying, as we all know, from figures given time and again, more than our just share of the interest of these amounts. It would be equally fair to charge Quebec, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia with nearly $30,000,000 that it took to construct the Intercolonial Railway, so that I do not think these people have an argument in their favor when they assume such positions as they have done; in any case the figures are against them. Surely they cannot say they will not be guided by the figures which they published, and we have a right to assume that these figures are correct. They clearly show that while the Dominion Government continue their acts of piracy towards this Province they are assuming a most untenable position. We have before our consideration the resolutions which have been adopted for the guidance of the delegates who are to proceed to Ottawa. This is not the first time that the Legislature of Manitoba has undertaken to give instructions to gentlemen entrusted with such a position. Upon another occasion the hon. gentleman who moved the resolutions yesterday moved similar resolutions, but we have had occasion to complain more than once that they did not enter into his consideration when he undertook to represent our case at Ottawa, or that he did not press them to their legitimate result, else we would not have been in the beggarly position we are in to-day. I refer to this, not so much to find fault at this time with that hon. gentleman as to warn the gentlemen who are undertaking the task of representing Manitoba's claims at this moment against anything like avoiding the instruction given on this occasion. These instructions, from the spirit in which they have been considered, are supposed to contain Manitoba's ultimatum to the Federal authorities. (Hon. Mr. Miller—hear, hear.) That fact should not be lost sight of. I undertake to say, as one who assisted in formulating these demands, that the representatives should consider that these resolutions do so contain the people's ultimatum. I think, Sir, it has been clearly shown that we have at the present time from our present sources of revenue, about one-half the amount necessary to meet our fair demands; and I think that I may be allowed to say that the estimate to which I shall refer more particularly at a subsequent time, is not an exorbitant one for the requirements of this Province at the present time. We might take, for instance, the estimates recently submitted to the Nova Scotia Legislature.

It is true they have a larger population, but being a comparatively old Province, they have not the same demands upon their resources. In this country everything is to be done; all kinds of public works, bridges, roads, etc., have to be constructed; aid has to be given for the purpose of organizing the different municipalities throughout the country. All that was done in the Province referred to years ago; yet their estimates amount to $536,000, or a little above the estimates we have at this time before us. Further than that, the time is very near in the history of Manitoba when we shall require double the amount we require to-day. I think, in order to develop properly this country, and undertake such works as will be necessary, we shall require at least $1,000,000 revenue in a very short time. We have at present just one-fourth of that amount, hence it must be quite clear that we are in a poor position; but if our claims are considered at all in a fair light, we need not remain so long. Take for instance the Dominion Government's own assumption that we have at the present time 150,000 souls in Manitoba; if we carry this out to the proper conclusion they should be willing to add to our capital (at $32.43 per head), giving $4,864,500. Deducting the amount we were entitled to at the first adjustment, $551,447, this, capitalized at five per cent., would give additional interest of $215,752.65, or a total income (when added to the amount now annually received) of $442,905.89, and with other resources we might reasonably add, we would be placed in a position to overtake the estimates before us. If the revenue from smaller sources, such as the sale of stamps and a few things of that kind were added to this amount, it would cover half a million dollars. But we should calculate at this time so as not to require to enter into the consideration of this subject again very soon. It is not too much to say, taking into account the amount of lands in Manitoba still unsold, and the amount sold and applied to Federal purposes, that we are entitled to capitalize on that account $10,000,000, or half the amount estimated by some of my honorable friends opposite. It does appear strange that after all the efforts made from 1880 to the present time it should be necessary to discuss this question at such length to convince those people of our just claims; yet, from the despatch before us, from former considerations of this subject, from all the delays that have been made and the promises we have had that our claim would be taken into serious consideration, it does appear a most difficult task to establish it upon the minds of the people at Ottawa that we have a just claim upon them for an amount sufficient to meet our responsibilities. We contend that, if the present policy is to be pursued, the bonds of Confederation must be burst asunder. But we may take the other view, that if they are going to pursue their policy of parental care over us, we must have a living, and can justly claim that we are entitled to a sufficient amount to meet our bare necessities, at least.

I hope that my honorable friends opposite are sufficiently impressed with the importance of this subject, and as we are about, in a few days, to adjourn for the purpose of having our representations urged in the proper quarter, I hope that it will be urged in an emphatic manner as the final demands made upon the people at Ottawa, in order to secure for us the amount necessary to maintain our existence as a member of Confederation. (Hear, hear.) This is the only spirit in which it should be urged. I only make the suggestion and warn our friends that no such trifling and dilly-dallying as has been manifested upon this subject up to the present time will be borne by the people of Manitoba (cries of question, question, from the Government benches.) We do not propose to be treated as children; I think that it is the feeling of the people of Manitoba, and I think there are mature men in Manitoba who are capable of looking after their own interests and mean to do it. If the people at Ottawa do not look after our interests the consequences will be fearful to contemplate so far as one Province of Confederation is concerned. What do we see? During the recent session of the Dominion Parliament, in which we have been told from day to day that Manitoba's claims would be considered and her just rights acceded to, we see the Federal Government voting in one short session of three months $80,000,000. That means $2,700,000 as our proportion added to the capital account of the Dominion or $135,000 per year when capitalised at 5 per cent. Are these not serious consequences that strike one very forcibly at this moment, when a debt is piled upon our population of $18 per head in the short period of three months? As a gentleman remarked to-day in conversation, the Dominion Government may say when our representatives go to Ottawa (to use a Boss-Tweedism), "What are you going to do about it?" Well, it does appear to me as if they have just taken that position after all the representations that have been made to them. After the long despatch of March, 1883, to which no answer was given, and that of January, just about the time the Dominion House met, to-day that precious state paper does not propose the grant of an additional dollar to Manitoba. With these facts before us, we see them voting away millions of dollars to other Provinces already too highly fed, and we are called upon to pay our share, and more than our just proportion. When the Legislature met and we saw the manner in which our claims were being treated, my idea was that we should at once appeal to the Imperial Privy Council. I do not believe that we shall appeal there in vain if this treatment be still persisted in. I think we can easily show that we have been treated in such a manner that it would be far better, if the treatment is persisted in, that we should cease to be a member of Confederation. I do not want to say, and I shall not say that there is a sentiment in Manitoba in favor of annexation to the country south of us: I do not believe that any such exists extensively.

I believe there are just as loyal hearts in this Province as beneath the shades of St. James' Palace, but there is a loyalty that comes home, a loyalty to ourselves and the institutions under which we live. There is nothing in British institutions to compel people to sit silently under such treatment as this. I thought the time had arrived when we should make an appeal beyond those people at Ottawa, and that we should lay our case fully at the foot of the throne and see if British institutions required of us to sit silently under such a state of things; and I believe now and say without hesitation that we can get along better without the people of the east than they can without us. What would this Dominion be without Manitoba and the Northwest? I can understand the motives which impelled those men who framed the constitution that under it might be dealt out to all the members fair play; and that under it might be bound together one great nation extending from the shores of the Atlantic to the Pacific—I can understand that sentiment, but how can it be successful if the majority are determined to grind down the minority, is there any reason why we should be compelled to sit quietly under it. I will illustrate the position Manitoba would occupy as a crown colony, by reference to the tariff that we pay into the Dominion treasury customs duties upon goods amounting to $1,500,000 annually. Some will tell us that we should not take this as a correct annual estimate, that it is too high, because they say that in the year I have selected, the C. P. R. paid a large portion of this amount; but, sir, I maintain that instead of its being too high, to show the amount actually paid by our people, it is below the mark—for the reason that we pay at least fifty per cent. more on goods which we consume—which are taken out of bond in Ontario and Quebec. This will far more than counterbalance anything paid by the C. P. R., and of course does not appear in our favor, but it is credited to the two provinces named. Now what does this show? Assuming that the sum I have mentioned is paid upon an average duty of twenty-five per cent. What do we find, sir, with the estimates before us? That we could relieve the people from two-thirds of the taxes paid by way of contribution to the Dominion Treasury, and run the affairs of the Province on the remaining third; or in other words by levying a duty of eight per cent., instead of twenty-five, we could derive from this source alone a sufficient sum to meet our present necessities. Again, sir, will any person tell me, that with a liberal railway policy a few years ago, when capital was more easily obtained than at present, if then we had been allowed the free exercise of our privilege to charter lines in various directions, and had been allowed the use of resources which were naturally ours for the purpose of subsidizing such lines, that we would not have had to-day a perfect network of railways throughout the Province, and might soon have found ourselves in a similar position to our friends to the south of us. The state of Minnesota, with her extensive railway system, if we had adopted their system of taxing railways, we might now be deriving a large revenue from that source. In that state upon a tax of 3 per cent. upon railway earnings they receive annually some $660,000. We are deprived of our resources and told that foreign capital shall not come in to build the lines of railway we so much need. These are some of the tributes we are paying to the grand scheme of Confederation. If it is to be a success there must be more than sentiment to bind it together and build it up; there must be as well, sir, unity of interests.

Yet we are told by some that we should not complain; but I am glad to find they are but few, and that the people and their representatives have at last become united upon a common demand which they propose to make in the interests of the country. I would speak with a voice of thunder if I could as a warning to the authorities that they go not too far, and of what will happen if they resist a united people such as we have in Manitoba to-day. (Applause.) We are told by some to go slow, and we are reminded of the good old day in Ontario, when our fathers went into the forests, and began with hoc and axe, and made themselves homes; we are told that they were in the bush, and worked among the stumps for 25 years without a railway. We will tell those people that we have a country more easily developed, and one that for that reason requires more at the start to develop it. We do not propose to go slowly. We did not come away from Ontario for the purpose of going slow, nor with any idea of going back a half a century in the march of civilization and general advancement, that has been made since the days of our boyhood. We came here with a full conviction that life is short, and we want to accomplish as much as we can and take advantage of all the improvements made since those days to develop Manitoba as rapidly as we can and make it the first Province of the Dominion. If we get the resources we ought to have, we will set such an example of progress before the other Provinces as will astonish them. I repeat that my policy was to go to the foot of the throne, but as we have in the despatch another indication that this matter will be taken under the serious consideration of a commission, I am willing that they should have another opportunity: but I throw out these ideas to show that we have something we can accomplish in another quarter if that extreme must be adopted. The estimates before us indicate that the expenditure of the Province must necessarily increase. If we compare it with that of last year or the year before, we shall find the expense continually increasing, and it is but natural that it should be so for a time, as works of various kinds have to be undertaken. A comparative statement of the receipts and expenditures for 1882-3 will show in what ratio the different heads have increased: Legislation, 1882, $23,876.56; 1883, $30,119.69; increase, $6,243.13, or nearly 36 per cent. Civil Government, 1882, $29,869.45; 1883, $54,918.29; increase, $25,048.84, being nearly 90 per cent. Administration of justice, 1882, $28,266.56; 1883, $62,178.08; increase, $33,911.52, or 120 per cent. Education, 1882, $33,645.62; 1883, $51,354.38; increase, $17,708.76, or over 50 per cent. Drainage increase 13 per cent. Government aid, 1882, $16,436.78; 1883, $54,042.42; increase, $38,605.64, or 225 per cent. Total, 1881, $243,635; 1882, $382,270; 1883, $506,399. My hon. friend thinks that the estimates have now arrived at a stationary amount, but I am afraid he does not take exactly the correct position.

I am afraid that as in the history of our other countries they will continue to increase as the wants and numbers of the people increase. As the Premier has stated to get a great increase of population under existing circumstances is not desirable. Still, the Government in its paternal care over us continues issuing pamphlets and doing what it can to induce people to come here. I hope the Government will devise some means by which people coming here may, at least a portion of them, be retained within the limits of the Province. The C. P. R. has been built so fast that we find people taking the railway and going to the west of us, so that we are not deriving the benefit we should get. When we get sufficient resources the Government should adopt means to retain a certain percentage of those who come, as we have a large amount of vacant lands, and as speculators are willing to sell. I am proud of this ultimatum, because it contains sentiments which I have entertained for a long time. I am proud we have put it as one of the rights of the Province of Manitoba to charter lines of railway from any one point to another point, except as limited by the Act of 1881. I am glad the Government has proposed to call attention to the fact of the high duties being prejudicial to the interests of the people of this Province. It is a victory for the people of Manitoba (because there is no mistaking their sentiments) that they, through their properly qualified representatives, have expressed themselves unanimously, without a dissenting voice, in favor of the principles enunciated in the Bill of Rights. With these accorded to us, as they must be accorded, we will show here a Province developed as no other Province has developed. As history has repeated itself, so we shall have a people raised up that by and by may perhaps vanquish their more southern foes. (Prolonged applause).
